Summary

Hey there! I'm a second-year software development student at Kaunas University of Technology. So far during these years, I gained a decent foundation in C#, HTML, CSS, JavaScript, and React/React Native. I am particularly very interested and passionate about the front-end field and seek to learn more about it.

Alongside my studies, I incorporate time for self-learning about the front-end field. I am developing small starter projects to understand all the concepts. With time I plan to aim for bigger projects to learn even more things.

Looking ahead I am eager to continuously sharpen my skills and immerse myself in practical experiences. My vision is to curate a portfolio that not only showcases my technical abilities but also reflects my journey of constant growth and learning in the tech industry. I am on the lookout for opportunities that will allow me to put my skills to the test—be it through part-time roles, full-time internships, or junior positions.
